Not Taking Action

It occurred to me recently that a particularly important act of stewardship requires the absence of action at all. It came to me when I was having one of those bad days we all have. You know; the kind of day when things just don’t go very smoothly.

It actually began the night before when my cat Rocky ran out the back door. He does this a lot and usually stays in the fenced backyard for a while and then returns. But he didn’t return. Later that night he didn’t answer my calls. I assumed he was choosing to ignore me so he could prowl for the night.

In the morning I called again. He didn’t answer so I got in my car to go to work. Backing out of the driveway, I suddenly heard his characteristic “Meow!” Actually, it’s more of a yowling sound that’s way too high pitched for a male cat; a sound that grates at your nerve endings.

As I looked around I finally spotted him high in my neighbor’s Oak tree. My immediate thought was to call the fire department like they always do on TV, but I realized in this day and age I would probably receive an invoice for several thousand dollars along with some sort of criminal charge. So I called Rocky but he wouldn’t come down. The yowling continued. My neighbor across the street saw me and asked, “What’s up there?” “My cat,” I replied. “Oh, I thought maybe it was a raccoon or opossum.” I wondered what it was about me that made him think I would spend the early morning hours luring wildlife out of trees.

Unsuccessful at getting Rocky to come down, I got out my ladder, climbed to the top and grabbed him. Rocky panicked and with eyes wide as saucers, he stretched out all four legs, extended his claws and clung to the Oak like an old piece of moss that had no intention of ever leaving that tree.

As we wrestled, the cat didn’t move, the tree didn’t move, but the ladder wobbled rather wildly. My wife stood by my side, encouraging me with words like, “Keith, don’t break the cat!” and “Keith, don’t break the neighbor’s tree!” and “Keith, don’t fall and break your neck!” (Coming in third on her list of concerns is better that not at all.)

Eventually I won the battle, got the cat secured in the house, put the ladder in the garage and hurriedly drove to work. When I arrived, I noticed blood all over my clothing. My arm was cut in several places either from the cat, the tree, the ladder or some combination of the three. The rest of the day didn’t go much better. Problems with this and problems with that, coupled with having to answer the same question over and over as one co-worker after another asked the inevitable question, “What in the world happened to you?”

“God, why are some days like this?” I implored. Not anything terribly wrong, but so many little irritations. Quite honestly, on days like this I begin to feel downright uncharitable towards others. I just want to say, “Can everybody just leave me alone!” Or, “Stop bringing me problems to deal with!” Or, “No, I didn’t have a run-in with the garbage disposal!”

I try not to act on these temptations. I try to keep my cool. On days like this sometimes my greatest act of stewardship is no action at all.

That night my wife calmly said, “Next time just spray Rocky with a hose . . . he’ll come down.” Why didn’t I think of that? The term “smarty-pants” briefly crossed my mind. I held my tongue.

EVANGELISM IN ACTION: Sometimes it’s very charitable to simply hold your tongue.

We Must Unite Our “House” Divided

Our Popes and Bishops have made it abundantly clear that abortion is "intrinsically evil" and the "preeminent issue" for Catholics.

This means that Catholics must assign absolute top priority to oppose this evil:

"....the obligation to oppose intrinsically evil acts has special claim on our consciences and our action," Cardinal Justin Regali

This brings to mind James 2:20: “... O vain man, that faith without works is dead?” The Catholic faith is not a social club; therefore we must accept all of her teachings or be complicit in breaking God’s rules. Aren’t we supposed to be “one holy, Catholic, and apostolic Church”?

This is America 2013 when we have many Catholic politicians who see and promote child-killing as "health care."

This is simply inexcusable! We, as faithful Catholics have a duty to replace these so-called leaders who are complicit in maintaining our “culture of death.”

The Slippery Slope of Euthanasia

There are so many hazards with euthanasia ranging from the problem of defining "terminally ill" to the very real danger of euthanasia becoming a means of health care containment.

Advocates argue that it would be "voluntary", but the movement from voluntary to involuntary euthanasia would be like the movement of abortion from "only for the life or health of the mother" as was proclaimed by advocates 40 years ago to today's "abortion on demand even if the baby is half born. Advocates of euthanasia state that abortion is something people choose ---- it is not forced on them and that voluntary euthanasia will not be forced on them either. They are missing the main point ----- it is not an issue of force ---- it is an issue of the way laws against an action can be broadened and expanded once something is declared legal.

You don't need to oppose abortion to appreciate the way the laws on abortion have changed and appreciate that the same trend would apply to euthanasia/assisted suicide as soon as the door is opened to make it legal.

Euthanasia is a rejection of the importance and value of human life. People who support euthanasia often say that it is already considered permissible to take human life under some circumstances such as self-defense ---- but they miss the point that when one kills for self-defense they are saving innocent life - either their own or someone else's. With euthanasia no one's life is being saved ---- life is only taken.

History has taught us the dangers of euthanasia and that is why there are only two countries in the world today where it is legal. That is why almost all societies ---- even non-religious ones ---- for thousands of years have made euthanasia a crime. It is remarkable that euthanasia advocates today think they know better than the billions of people throughout history who have outlawed euthanasia ---- what makes euthanasia supporters in 2013 so wise that they think they can discard the accumulated wisdom of almost all societies of all time and open the door to the killing of innocent people?

Have things changed? If they have, they are changes that should logically reduce the call for euthanasia --- pain control medicines and procedure are far better than they have ever been any time in history.
“By concentrating our relationship with the Eucharistic Christ only on Mass we run the risk that the rest of time and space is emptied of His presence.”
– Benedict XVI

Dear Sisters and Brothers in Christ:

“Go therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit...” (Matthew 28:19). These words of Jesus Christ in the Great Commission are familiar to many of us. The missionary mandate to take the Gospel to every land resonated with those early disciples and they traveled across the Roman Empire and beyond to baptize, preach and nourish the people with the Word made flesh, Jesus Christ.

The Eucharist is celebrated and the Gospel is preached all over the world because of the efforts and sacrifices of missionaries who boldly proclaimed the Gospel and witnessed to Christ with their lives. During this Year of Faith, the Church invites us to not only embolden our own faith, but to make the faith alive and available to those who need to hear the message of Christ’s saving love.

Next weekend the Diocese of Palm Beach will take up a special collection to benefit the Solidarity Fund, to assist the Church in Africa and the Church in Latin America. Through this collection we are able to participate in missionary activities to support essential pastoral projects that help educate and provide a solid faith foundation for our brothers and sisters in Africa and Latin America. The Church in Africa and Latin America, though old in her foundations, is youthful and vibrant in her expressions of faith, hope and love. I invite you to be modern day missionaries and to accept the Great Commission to make disciples of every nation by supporting the Solidarity Fund for the Church in Africa and Latin America.

Thank you for your continued generosity and your willingness to partner with the Church in Africa and Latin America. May God always bless you and your families.

With gratitude and every prayerful wish, I am

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Most Reverend Gerald M. Barbarito
Bishop of Palm Beach
